STORY SEQUENCE

After reading the book, the students will summarize the story in sections by beginning, middle and end using drawings and/or sentences. Encourage them to use as much detail as possible.

A worksheet titled "Story Sequence" with a small cartoon character in the top right corner. It has fields for "Name" and "Title". The main area is divided into three sections: "beginning", "middle", and "end", each with a drawing area and a writing area. Arrows indicate the flow from beginning to middle to end.

A worksheet titled "Character Sketch". It has fields for "Name" and "Title". Below the title is a section "The Character's Name is" and "The Character Looks Like This" with a large drawing area. At the bottom, there is a table with two columns: "Word" and "Evidence from the Text to Support My Thinking".

CHARACTER SKETCH

After reading the book, the students will select a character from the book to focus on. Each student should identify the character by name and cite examples from the text to support their thinking. For the drawing, encourage them to add details that relate to the story by including props and a background and not just a body.

ASKING QUESTIONS

A worksheet titled "Asking Questions". It has fields for "Name" and "Title". Below the title is a section "Write Their Questions" with a table with two columns: "Question" and "Answer". At the bottom, there is a section "Think & Search Questions" with a table with two columns: "Question" and "Answer".

To complete this activity the students will need to write questions about what they've read. Refer to the directions on the page.

READING CONTINUED

☐ WORDS IN THE STORY

To complete this activity each student will go through the text and search for words beginning with each letter of the alphabet. They may include multiple words in each box.

☐ WORDS IN THE STORY 2

After gathering words from the story, the students will write sentences using those words in context.

☐ SETTING

The goal of the settings activity is for students to understand that stories often have more than one setting and that setting includes not only location, but also time. After reading the story have them illustrate a detailed picture of the setting(s) in the text, describe the setting and answer the questions using details from the text.

☐ PARTS OF A STORY

This activity focuses on the problem and the solution of a story. It is often helpful to discuss this prior to having them put pencil to paper. They should use words and detailed illustrations to tell what the conflict was and how it was resolved.

☐ DESIGN A NEW BOOK COVER

After reading the story, the students should think about how the details can best be represented in one picture. Remind them that covers are important because it is the first thing a reader sees and often makes them form an opinion on if they want to read the book or not. Make sure they include the title and the author's name. If they are not using individual copies of the book please be sure to neatly write the title and author where they can easily copy them down.
